Dear Friend,

Thank you to everyone who participated in the cap and trade survey from a couple of weeks ago. As in past surveys, more than 2,200 constituents participated. I always appreciate hearing feedback from my neighbors in the Third District and I hope that you will feel free to contact me on matters important to you.

Enclosed for your review are the results of the survey. I hope you find them as interesting as I have found them helpful. You will notice that around one-fifth of respondents were unsure of how cap and trade legislation would impact their place of work, the global poor, and their own households. Congress should be careful not to pass legislation under the guise of lowering emissions without making it clear to the public what a cap-and-trade proposal would do and the direct impact it would have on all energy consumers.

Sincerely,

Daniel E. Lungren
Member of Congress
